

To whom it may concern,

The Malamalama program has helped me energize my personal finances and establish my own Hawaii based company as well as improve my FICO score and qualify for both an auto loan through a local credit union and a business loan.

Additionally, I have developed my interpersonal communication skills and my ability to live with other people in peace and harmony. I've experienced the power of sustainable community dynamics and what it's like to live in a habitat that supports everyone's individual needs through regular social activities and lessons for self-improvement, yet tied together with a shared vision.

I'm able to connect more deeply with my own body as well as other people and their bodies.

My ability to function as a productive citizen of society has dramatically increased.

I am even more aware of what's happening in the world today and how I can help advance things for major improvement.

Since graduating from the program I have solidified my life here on the Hawaiian Islands to the point where I am now married to the woman of my dreams.

Together we are raising our beautiful daughter on the island and we are constantly feeling so much genuine support from the community members of Kolealea as well as the extended network of like-minded people who we have access to thanks to Malamalama.

We realize this stage of our lives in parenthood on Maui will be a lot smoother and dramatically more fun for us (and our young child) because of this awesome support structure.

Sincerely,
Joshua Seymour
